Advocate for the Respondent : GA, ASSAM

BEFORE
HONOURABLE MR. JUSTICE N. UNNI KRISHNAN NAIR

ORDER

Date : 02.04.2024

Heard Mr. S. Ahmed, learned counsel for the petitioner. Also heard Ms. N. Phukan, learned standing counsel, Elementary Education Department, appearing on behalf of Respondents No. 1, 2, 4 & 5; and Mr. B. Deuri, learned Government Advocate, appearing on behalf of Respondent No. 3.

2. As agreed to by the learned counsels appearing for the parties; this writ petition is taken-up for final consideration and disposal.

3. The petitioner by way of instituting this present proceedings, has raised a grievance with regard to non-consideration of his case for appointment on compassionate ground in pursuance to the death of his father while he was serving as Head Teacher of 207 No. Suhabil Dalani L.P. School, Barpeta.

4. The father of the petitioner late Iman Ali Ahmed while serving as Head Teacher of 207 No. Suhabil Dalani L.P. School, Barpeta, died in harness on 26.06.2016. On the death of his father, the petitioner, herein, approached the respondent authorities by way of filing an application on 13.09.2016, praying for his appointment on compassionate ground.

5. It is the projection made by the petitioner in this writ petition that the application, dated 13.09.2016, as preferred by him, having not resulted in the consideration of his case by the designated Committees, the petitioner again on

20.02.2017, had preferred another application for his appointment on compassionate ground. Thereafter, the Block Elementary Education Officer, Barpeta, vide his order, dated 02.03.2017, vide his order, dated 02.03.2017, after having carried-out a field survey to ascertain the financial condition of the family of the petitioner; submitted the report before the Inspector of Schools, Barpeta. The case of the petitioner, thereafter, was placed before the District Level Scrutiny Committee(DLSC) for consideration of his case. The said District Level Scrutiny Committee(DLSC), thereafter, considered the case of the petitioner and rejected his such case after due consideration with the following observations:

“Applied within 1 year. Applicant passed HS with 34.80%. Applied for any post the proposal of the applicant is placed for discussion on 09.09.2019 but could not be recommended due to his ineligibility for the post of Asstt. Teacher and due to want of eligible vacant post of Grade-IV.”

6. Such rejection of the case of the petitioner for appointment on compassionate ground was made by the District Level Scrutiny Committee(DLSC) in its meeting held on 09.09.2019. Being aggrieved; the petitioner has instituted the present proceedings, inter alia, praying for a direction to the respondent authorities to appoint him against any Grade-III or Grade-IV post.

7. A perusal of the pleadings made by the petitioner as brought on record, would reveal that the decision of the District Level Scrutiny Committee(DLSC) as arrived at in its meeting held on 09.09.2019, has not been put to challenge by the petitioner in the present proceedings.

8. The case of the petitioner having been duly considered, was rejected by the District Level Scrutiny Committee(DLSC) on the ground that he did not possess the eligibility for appointment against the post of Assistant Teacher(Grade-III post) and his further consideration for appointment against the Grade-IV post was held to not possible on account of there being no vacant Grade-IV post available within the prescribed quota for appointment on compassionate ground. The petitioner after rejection of his application for appointment on compassionate ground by the designated Committee in its meeting held on 09.09.2019, being aggrieved, has instituted the present proceedings before this Court on 14.03.2024.

9. The pleadings as brought on record in this writ petition, reveals that the case of the petitioner was given its due consideration in terms of the policy for appointment on compassionate ground in place and on such consideration being made; the case of the petitioner being rejected for the reasons as recorded hereinabove; the claim of the petitioner for appointment on compassionate ground, cannot be said to be subsisting as on date.

10. The present proceedings having been filed by the petitioner only for a direction for a fresh consideration of the case of the petitioner without making a challenge to the decision already arrived at in his case by the designated Committee in its meeting held on 09.09.2019, even ignoring the decision as arrived at in the case of the petitioner by the designated Committee; this Court after a lapse of around 8 years from the death of the father of the petitioner, would not be in a position to direct the respondent authorities to consider the case of the petitioner, afresh, for appointment on compassionate ground.

11. The issues arising herein is covered by the recent decision of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in the case of State of W.B. v. Debabrata Tiwari & ors. [reported in (2023) SCC Online SC 219], wherein the Hon'ble Court upon considering the earlier decision available in the matter, had concluded as follows:

"32. On consideration of the aforesaid decisions of this Court, the following principles emerge:

i. That a provision for compassionate appointment makes a departure from the general provisions providing for appointment to a post by following a particular procedure of recruitment. Since such a provision enables appointment being made without following the said procedure, it is in the nature of an exception to the general provisions and must be resorted to only in order to achieve the stated objectives, i.e., to enable the family of the deceased to get over the sudden financial crisis.

ii. Appointment on compassionate grounds is not a source of recruitment. The reason for making such a benevolent scheme by the State or the public sector undertaking is to see that the dependants of the deceased are not deprived of the means of livelihood. It only enables the family of the deceased to get over the sudden financial crisis.

iii. Compassionate appointment is not a vested right which can be exercised at any time in future. Compassionate employment cannot be claimed or offered after a lapse of time and after the crisis is over.

iv. That compassionate appointment should be provided immediately to redeem the family in distress. It is improper to keep such a case pending for years.

v. In determining as to whether the family is in financial crisis, all relevant aspects must be borne in mind including the income of the family, its liabilities, the terminal benefits if any, received by the family, the age, dependency and marital status of its members, together with the income from any other source.

33. The object underlying a provision for grant of compassionate employment is to enable the family of the deceased employee to tide over the sudden crisis due to the death of the bread-earner which has left the family in penury and without any means of livelihood. Out of pure humanitarian consideration and having regard to the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be in a position to make both ends meet, a provision is made for giving gainful appointment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such appointment. Having regard to such an object, it would be of no avail to grant compassionate appointment to the dependants of the deceased employee, after the crisis which arose on account of death of a bread-winner, has been overcome. Thus, there is also a compelling need to act with a sense of immediacy in matters concerning compassionate appointment because on failure to do so, the object of the scheme of compassionate would be frustrated. Where a long lapse of time has occurred since the date of death of the deceased employee, the sense of immediacy for seeking compassionate appointment would cease to exist and thus lose its significance and this would be a relevant circumstance which must weigh with the authorities in determining as to whether a case for the grant of compassionate appointment has been made out for consideration.

34. As noted above, the sine qua non for entertaining a claim for compassionate appointment is that the family of the deceased employee would be unable to make two ends meet without one of the dependants of the deceased employee being employed on compassionate grounds. The financial condition of the family of the deceased, at the time of the death of the deceased, is the primary consideration that ought to guide the authorities' decision in the matter.

35. Considering the second question referred to above, in the first instance, regarding whether applications for compassionate appointment could be considered after a delay of several years, we are of the view that, in a case where, for reasons of prolonged delay, either on the part of the applicant in claiming compassionate appointment or the authorities in deciding such claim, the sense of immediacy is diluted and lost. Further, the financial circumstances of the family of the deceased, may have changed, for the better, since the time of the death of the government employee. In such circumstances, Courts or other relevant authorities are to be guided by the fact that for such prolonged period of delay, the family of the deceased was able to sustain themselves, most probably by availing gainful employment from some other source. Granting compassionate appointment in such a case, as noted by this Court in Hakim Singh would amount to treating a claim for compassionate appointment as though it were a matter of inheritance based on a line of succession which is contrary to the Constitution. Since compassionate appointment is not a vested right and the same is relative to the financial condition and hardship faced by the dependents of the deceased government employee as a consequence of his death, a claim for compassionate appointment may not be entertained after lapse of a considerable period of time since the death of the government employee.

36. Laches or undue delay, the blame-worthy conduct of a person in approaching a Court of Equity in England for obtaining discretionary relief which disentitled him for grant of such relief was explained succinctly by Sir Barnes Peacock, in Lindsay Petroleum Co. v. Prosper Armstrong, [1874] 3 P.C. 221 as under:

"Now the doctrine of laches in Courts of Equity is not an arbitrary or a technical doctrine. Where it would be practically unjust to give a remedy, either because the party has, by his conduct, done that which might fairly be regarded as equivalent to a waiver of it, or where by his conduct and neglect he has, though perhaps not waiving that remedy, yet put the other party in a situation, in which it would not be reasonable to place him if the remedy were afterwards to be asserted, in either of these cases, lapse of time and delay are most material. But in every case, if an argument against relief, which otherwise would be just, is founded upon mere delay, that delay of course not amounting to a bar by any statute or limitations, the validity of that defence must be tried upon principles substantially equitable. Two circumstances, always important in such cases, are, the length of the delay and the nature of the acts done during the interval, which might affect either party and cause a balance of Justice or injustice in taking the one course or the other, so far as it relates to the remedy."

37. Whether the above doctrine of laches which disentitled grant of relief to a party by Equity Court of England, could disentitle the grant of relief to a person by the High Court in the exercise of its power under Article 226 of our Constitution, came up for consideration before a Constitution Bench of this Court in Moon Mills Ltd. v. M. R. Meher, President, Industrial Court, Bombay, AIR 1967 SC 1450. In the said case, it was regarded as a principle that disentitled a party for grant of relief from a High Court in the exercise of its discretionary power under Article 226 of the Constitution.

38. In State of M.P. v. Nandlal Jaiswal, (1986) 4 SCC 566 this Court restated the principle articulated in earlier pronouncements in the following words:

"9.... the High Court in exercise of its discretion does not ordinarily assist the tardy and the indolent or the acquiescent and the lethargic. If there is inordinate delay on the part of the Petitioner and such delay is not satisfactorily explained, the High Court may decline to intervene and grant relief in exercise of its writ jurisdiction. It was stated that this Rule is premised on a number of factors. The High Court does not ordinarily permit a belated resort to the extraordinary remedy because it is likely to cause confusion and public inconvenience and bring, in its train new injustices, and if writ jurisdiction is exercised after unreasonable delay, it may have the effect of inflicting not only hardship and inconvenience but also injustice on third parties. It was pointed out that when writ jurisdiction is invoked, unexplained delay coupled with the creation of third-party rights in the meantime is an important factor which also weighs with the High Court in deciding whether or not to exercise such jurisdiction."

39. While we are mindful of the fact that there is no period of limitation provided for filing a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, ordinarily, a writ petition should be filed within a reasonable time, vide Jagdish Lal v. State of Haryana, (1997) 6 SCC 538; NDMC v. Pan Singh, (2007) 9 SCC 278.

40. Further, simply because the Respondents-Writ Petitioners submitted their applications to the relevant authority in the year 2005-2006, it cannot be said that they diligently perused the matter and had not slept over their rights. In this regard, it may be apposite to refer to the decision of this Court in State of Uttaranchal v. Shiv Charan Singh Bhandari, (2013) 12 SCC 179, wherein the following observations were made:

"19. From the aforesaid authorities it is clear as crystal that even if the court or tribunal directs for consideration of representations relating to a stale claim or dead grievance it does not give rise to a fresh cause of action. The dead cause of action cannot rise like a phoenix. Similarly, a mere submission of representation to the competent authority does not arrest time."

12. As noticed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Debabrata Tiwari(supra), the operation of a policy/scheme for compassionate appointment is founded on consideration of immediacy.

13. The petitioner and/or his family members having not pursued the matter in the long absence occasioning after the death of the father of the petitioner; the petitioner having been able to eke out a living even though not favoured with an appointment on compassionate ground, this Court does not deem it to be a fit case to direct the respondent authorities to consider the case of the petitioner for appointment on compassionate ground.

14. In that view of the matter, this writ petition is found to be devoid of merit and the writ petition accordingly stands dismissed. However, there shall be no order as to costs.
